In Memoriam

ARTHUR H. ROBERTS
1897-1956

Above the smoke and stir of this dim spot

Which men call Earth, and with low-thoughted care

Confined, and pestered in this pinhole here,

Strive to keep up a frail and feverish being . . .

COMUS

JOHN MILTON

Art Roberts showed the way through the lines of a play script to the world of drama: a world of sorrow, joy, and triumph created in a moment when a curtain falls away and players and audience know each other for the first time, are one with the real world that hides from ordinary eyes that open in the morning and shut at night. It was like magic, of course; but it was more like love to hundreds of students who came to know this world because of his teaching. In their knowledge his memory will last.

He died early in July, 1956. In May of that year, he had entered as usual a play in the Little Theatre Tournament, though he had suffered a heart attack only a few months earlier. But poor health did not prevent his carrying on with that thing which meant so much to him. He had loved theatre since he was a seven-year-old running errands for traveling companies in Wardner and Kellogg, Idaho, and until talking motion pictures crowded him out, he had a company of his own that toured the Northwest. The depression of 1929 prevented his studying drama in the East, and after he began college at Montana State College, he transferred to Missoula to study history so he might teach. He was graduated in 1933, and among his history classmates was Senator Mike Mansfield. Through he lived and taught in Bozeman from 1934 on, he traveled wherever he might see plays; to New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, to the University of Washington in Seattle to work in the summer theatre there. "One time in New York," says his widow, Katherine Healy Roberts, a member of the English faculty at Montana State, "we saw seventeen performances in ten days." His acquaintances in professional and academic theatre were many. The plays he directed during his twenty-two years at Gallatin County high school in Bozeman were testimony to his excellence as a teacher, and the plays he entered in the Little Theatre Tournament always brought honors to the students who acted in them. A scholarship in his memory will be awarded during the Tournament this year. And this program is dedicated to him.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Interscholastic Committee wishes to extend its thanks to the following organizations and individuals for their invaluable assistance in making the 51st Interscholastic a success:

Spurs and Bear Paws for their advanced ticket sales work.

The Kiwanis, Lions, and Rotary service clubs.

The Missoula Mercantile.

The Missoula Chamber of Commerce.

The Missoula merchants who contributed so generously to the advanced ticket sales campaign.

Missoula city and county officials.

The Montana University band and its director, James Eversole.

The Pershing Rifles of the University ROTC.

The Daily Missoulian and Sentinel and County Times and Montana Kaimin.

Radio Stations KGVO, KXLL, and KBTK.

The campus ticket sales committee.

The University Traditions Board and cooperating fraternities, sororities, dormitories and other student groups.

Earl Martell, director of Student Activities-Facilities.

Dr. Lendal H. Kotschevar, director of Food Services and Residence Halls.

The many Montana citizens who contributed their time and talent as judges in the various events.
